

18:00-20:00 Dinner

Cognitive Emotions and Epistemic Virtues in Early Modern Philosophy

March 23-24 | Princeton University | 201 Laura Wooten Hall

Dinner spots limited. Email cdumitru@princeton.edu to sign up.

Saturday, March 23	Sunday, March 24
09:00-09:50 Breakfast in the lounge, Wooten Hall	09:00-09:50 Breakfast in the lounge, Wooten Hall
09:50–11:00 Laura Kotevska (Sydney): Learning the New Rules of Logic: Regulative Epistemology at Port-Royal	09:50–11:00 Domenica Romagni (Colorado State): Descartes and Aesthetic Perceptions
11:00–11:15 Coffee break	11:00–11:15 Coffee break
11:15–12:25 Claudia Dumitru (Princeton): Trust among the Hobbesian Passions	11:15–12:25 Haley Brennan (Princeton): Cavendish on Changing Your Mind
12:30–13:30 Lunch in the Tower Room	12:30–13:30 Lunch in the Tower Room
13:30–14:40 Ariane Schneck (Bielefeld): 'Forging their own chains'? Doxastic Autonomy and Women's Liberation in Early	13:30–14:40 Raphael Krut-Landau (independent scholar): Spinoza on Intensity
Modern Philosophy	14:40–15:00 Coffee break
14:40–15:00 Coffee break	15:00-16:10 Dan Garber (Princeton): Spinoza's Anti-Cogito
15:00–16:10 Martin Lin (Rutgers): Leibniz on the Grounds of Possibility	16:10–17:20 Drinks in the Tower Room
16:10–16:25 Coffee break	17:30–19:30 Dinner
16:25-17:35 Alejandro Naranjo Sandoval (UC Davis): Conway and Monism	