

THE EPISTEMIC SIGNIFICANCE OF PERCEPTUAL CONSCIOUSNESS

Conference venue: Jagiellonian University, Doctoral School in the Humanities, Rynek Główny 34, 2nd floor, 31-010 Kraków

Conference programme

THURSDAY 30.05.2024

9.30-11.00. Declan Smithies (Ohio State University) - The epistemic role of consciousness

11.00-11.15. coffee break

11.15-12.00. Anders Nes (NTNU, Trondheim) - The phenomenal roots of perceptual privilege

12.00-12.45. David Barnett (University of Toronto) - Owning conscious experiences

12.45-14.15. lunch break

14.15-15.00. Philip Groth (University of California, Santa Cruz) - Perception, belief, and the laws of appearance

15.00-15.45. Spencer Ivy & Aleksandra Mroczo-Wąsowicz (University of Warsaw) - The effects of framing on perceptual objects individuation

15.45-16.00. coffee break

16.00-16.45. Ben Gaskin - Morphological computation and the role of perceptual consciousness

16.45-17.30. Mette Kristine Hansen (University of Bergen) - Aesthetic appreciation and perceptual experiences of high-level properties

19.00. Conference dinner

FRIDAY 31.05.2024

9.30-11.00. Jacob Berger (Lycoming College) - The epistemic insignificance of perceptual consciousness

11.00-11.15. coffee break

11.15-12.00. Carlo Raineri (University of Manchester) - Phenomenal character and the epistemic role of consciousness

12.00-12.45. Paweł Grad (University of Warsaw) - Presentational and phenomenal forces of perception

12.45-14.15. lunch break

14.15-15.00. Auke Montessori (Washington University, St. Louis) - What if perceptual experiences were beliefs?

15.00-15.45. Paweł Zięba (Jagiellonian University, Cracow) – Epistemological disjunctivism and the silence of the senses

15.45-16.00. coffee break

16.00-16.45. Işık Sarihan (Budapest) - Perceptual acquaintance with abstract entities

16.45-17.30. Alex Moran (Université de Fribourg) - Sensory experience and 'depictive' knowledge