

School of Philosophical, Historical, and International Studies

Expertise, Humility, and Disagreement

Friday 25th July 10.00am – 5.00pm
Krongold Centre, Building 5, Clayton Campus

Please join us for a one-day conference at which we'll be exploring current issues in social epistemology.

10.00am: Jennifer Lackey – Northwestern University, Chicago
"Experts and disagreement"

11.45am: Baron Reed – Northwestern University, Chicago
"The norms of doubt"

2.00pm: Karen Jones – University of Melbourne
"Claiming epistemic standing in a community of co-inquiry"

3.45pm: Leon Leontyev – Australian National University
"My beliefs, your beliefs, and the parity in their evidential force"

This event is hosted by the Monash University Philosophy Department, as part of a major research project at St. Louis University on 'The Philosophy and Theology of Intellectual Humility', which is being funded by a research grant from the John Templeton Foundation. This event has been made possible by the support of the John Templeton Foundation and St. Louis University.

www.slu.edu/departments-of-philosophy/intellectual-humility
<http://www.templeton.org/>

Please RSVP to robert.simpson@monash.edu; attendance is free

MONASH University
Arts