Tübingen International Summer School 2014 is a joint venture of FORUM SCIENTIARUM and the Werner Reichardt Centre for Integrative Neuroscience (CIN) at the University of Tübingen.

TOPIC In order to develop a better understanding of empathy and social interaction this multidisciplinary school will discuss evidence from both theoretical and empirical disciplines. We will address the underlying psychological and neuronal mechanisms, their disturbances – like in autism –, and the resulting implications from a scientific and a philosophical perspective.

FACULTY

- Dr. Anne Böckler, MPI-CBS, Leipzig
- Dr. Philipp Kanske, MPI-CBS, Leipzig
- Prof. Dr. Hans Bernhard Schmid, Department of Philosophy, Vienna
- Dr. Michael Schmitz, Department of Philosophy, Vienna
- Prof. Dr. Ludger Tebartz van Elst, Medical Center, Freiburg
- Prof. Dr. Peter Thier, CIN, Tübingen

DEADLINE This summer school is aimed at advanced undergraduate students and graduate students working in neurobiology, neuroscience, psychology, philosophy, and other relevant disciplines.
JULY 18, 2014

Board and lodging (in double rooms) will be provided. There are no participation fees to be paid, although traveling costs and beverages have to be covered by the participants.
