

CALL FOR PAPERS

The graduate students of the University of Texas at Austin invite submissions for the third annual

Austin Graduate Ethics and Normativity Talks

To be held October 23-24, 2015

Keynote Speaker:

Stephen Darwall

*Andrew Downey Orrick Professor of Philosophy
Yale University*

We welcome high-quality papers from graduate students in any area of philosophy related to normativity and value broadly construed, including but not limited to:

- Aesthetics
 - Applied Ethics
 - Disability Theory
 - Epistemology
 - Feminist Philosophy - History of Ethics
 - Normative Ethics
 - Metaethics
 - Philosophy of Gender
 - Philosophy of Race
 - Philosophy of Law
 - Political Philosophy
- We also encourage submissions from other philosophical subfields as they relate to normativity, such as in (but not limited to) philosophy of language, mind, logic, mathematics, and metaphysics.

Submission Deadline: September 15, 2015

Notifications of Acceptance: October 1, 2015

We especially encourage submissions from members of groups underrepresented in the philosophy profession.

All submissions must be prepared for blind review. Please submit all documents (in .pdf, .docx, or .doc format) to utagentconference@gmail.com with the subject 'AGENT 2015 submission'. Please use your paper title as the document's name (e.g., InterestingPaper.pdf). One Submission per author. In addition, please include a cover letter with:

1. Paper Title
2. Author's Name
3. Author's institutional affiliation
4. Author's email
5. Paper Word Count (\leq 4000 words)
6. Abstract (\leq 300 words)

Send further questions to utagentconference@gmail.com