

UNIVERSITÀ
DEGLI STUDI
DI PADOVA

Padova Philosophy Summer School
Philosophical Controversies about Objectivity
in Classical German Philosophy and Contemporary Analytic Philosophy
Padova, 12-23 September 2016

What is objectivity? And what is objective? How do we manage to disagree with each other if something is objectively there? What's more, how can we understand our mutual disagreement? What happens when we disagree? How can we deal with disagreement?

The summer school "Philosophical Controversies about Objectivity" intends to offer an in-depth understanding of some important philosophical disputes, both of the past and present, relating to objectivity as well as the necessary analytical tools for a critical investigation of these debates.

Lecturers

Andrea Altobrando

Hokkaido University

Pierfrancesco Biasetti

University of Padua

Elisa Caldarola

University of Padua

Massimiliano Carrara

University of Padua

Karin de Boer

KU Leuven

Niklas Hebing

Ruhr-Universität-Bochum

Luca Illetterati

University of Padua

Max Kölbel

University of Barcelona

Teresa Marques

University Pompeu Fabra

Vittorio Morato

University of Padua

Sebastiano Moruzzi

University of Bologna

Michele Palmira

University of Barcelona

Marzia Soavi

University of Padua

Gabriele Tomasi

University of Padua

Wilhelm Vossenkuhl

Ludwig-Maximilian-Universität München

Tomoyuki Yamada

Hokkaido University

Summer school structure: During the first two days, introductory classes on the topics of philosophical disagreement and on the tools to analyze them shall be provided. From the third day on, there will be morning classes on disputes concerning objectivity in specific philosophical areas (ontology, metaphysics, epistemology, ethics, aesthetics, philosophy of logic and language, etc.), and afternoon workshops, during which the students will be required to analyze and discuss the disputes introduced during the morning classes.

A detailed program, including requisite reading materials, will be available by the end of July.

Organizers: Massimiliano Carrara, Andrea Altobrando

Scientific Committee: M. Carrara, T. Yamada, L. Illetterati, A. Altobrando

Location: University of Padova, to be determined

Time: 12-23 September 2016

Registration deadline: 31 August 2016

Max. amount of students: 40

Fees: None

Target Audience: All levels from Undergraduate to Post-Doc are welcome

Working language: English

Outcomes: The results of the afternoon workshops will be published on a dedicated web page

ECTS only for students of the Padua University: Participation in the Summer School gives 5 ECTS points. For students from other universities: the FISPPA Department of the Padua University will provide you with a certificate of attendance on the condition that you are present for a minimum of 70% of the summer school morning lectures, 50% of the afternoon workshops, and fill in an evaluation form at the end of the summer school.

Accommodation: We will help all participants to find accommodation in Padova (youth hostel, hotel rooms). Participants will be responsible for meals. Internet and library access will be provided.

Side activities: Visits to the historical buildings of the University, to the Padua city center as well as to several main monuments will be organized for all interested participants.

For information and registration: paduaestivaphilosophia@gmail.com

Website: <http://paduaestivaphilosophia.altervista.org>

In collaboration with

