

The 16th North American Basic Income Guarantee (NABIG) Congress

Panel for Philosophers: “The Relevance of Philosophy to the Basic Income Movement”

Conference Dates:

June 15-18, 2017

Location:

Silberman School of Social Work at Hunter College
2180 3rd Ave
New York City, NY 10035
USA

Proposals Due:

January 31, 2017

The organizers of the 2017 North American Basic Income Guarantee (NABIG) Congress invite all philosophers with relevant interests to submit proposals for short (15-20 min) presentations to be delivered as part of a philosophy-oriented panel.

Proposals drawing from any branch of philosophy are welcome, provided that they have relevance to the contemporary discussion and debates surrounding basic income.

The annual North American Basic Income Guarantee (NABIG) Congress is co-organized by the United States Basic Income Guarantee Network and Basic Income Canada Network, with its venue alternating between US and Canadian locations. Each year, it brings together a wide variety of academics, researchers, policy advocates, social activists, government officials and other individuals interested in the idea and implementation of a basic income guarantee.

Topics of other sessions at the 2017 Congress may include (but are not limited to): past and present pilot studies, welfare rights, degrowth, technology and AI, model legislation for a BIG, labor perspectives on basic income, and race and gender issues as they relate to basic income.

Information regarding previous NABIG Congresses is available at usbig.net. Additional details about the 2017 Congress will be available soon at the same website.

Those interested in participating in the panel for philosophers should submit an abstract of no more than 500 words to Kate McFarland (mcfarland.309@osu.edu) by January 31, 2017.

Selections will be announced no later than February 15, 2017.

Panel Organizer: Dr. Kate McFarland (The Ohio State University, Department of Philosophy)
