

Call for Proposals

Teaching the Intellectual Virtues

APA Pacific Division Meeting
March 28–April 1, 2018
San Diego, CA

The APA Committee on the Teaching of Philosophy (CTP) and the American Association of Philosophy Teachers (AAPT) seek panelists for a session on teaching the intellectual virtues at the AAPT-APA Teaching Hub at the 2018 APA Pacific Division meeting, March 28–April 1, in San Diego, CA.

We envision three to four different presentations on teachers' curricula, course assignments, and classroom strategies for cultivating intellectual virtues in their students. While pedagogical methodologies are our primary interest, we are open to proposals that, in addition to pedagogical considerations, explore the catalog, meanings, and limits of the intellectual virtues as we aim to cultivate them in our students.

Consistent with the ethos of the APA CTP and the AAPT, we expect presentations to be short, perhaps 20 minutes, to allow for a rich discussion among panelists and participants as to how the intellectual virtues might be cultivated. We will appreciate proposals which include concrete ideas about how to make the session interactive.

Submissions:

Proposals of no more than 500 words, prepared for anonymous review, should be sent to Mark Jensen, m.nathan.jensen@gmail.com, by September 15, 2017. Please include a brief explanation of both your approach to cultivating the intellectual virtues and your experiences doing so. Supporting material, such as syllabi, handouts, or a CV, is also welcome; we are interested in ensuring representation of a range of voices.

Deadline for Proposals: September 15, 2017

Selection of Presenters: October 1, 2017 (expected)

Questions about this session should also be directed to Mark Jensen at the above email address.
