KEYNOTE SPEAKERS:

March 16–18, 2018

Do modern day academic philosophers have an active role to play in non-academic society? Do academic philosophers have a duty to engage in activism? How can an academic philosopher effectively cultivate a socially conscious public media presence? Our hope is to highlight underrepresented and international voices on the topic of applied social philosophy, and to present a conference that enhances our collective understanding of both the social-political landscape and the role that the discipline of academic philosophy can play within it.
