

THE SOPHOPHILIAC

Call for Papers

The Sophophiliac is an international Philosophy Journal, offering all undergraduates a chance to begin publishing their ideas, explore the intellectual landscape of their peers, develop an academic profile and hone their writing skills.

Submit your paper or article for our debut in spring 2018.

Categories:

- Short article: an article of up to 1000 words.
- Article or Interview: an article or essay of up to 5000 words, or an interview with a philosopher. (If intending to conduct an interview, please contact us beforehand.)
- Paper: a paper of up to 10 000 words.

Topics:

Entries for all topics in Philosophy are welcome, including (but not limited to): Metaphysics, Epistemology, Ethics, Aesthetics, History of Philosophy, Philosophy of Mind, Science and Physics, of Mathematics, Religion and Theology, Logic, Language, Politics and Law, and many more.

Submission:

Submit to thesophophiliac@gmail.com by the 5th of April 2018, and contact the same address for any queries.

Entries of highest standard will receive detailed feedback. The best five entries for each category will be published. The author of the best entry will be contacted for an interview. The Spring Edition will be published in electronic form on the 5th of May 2018. Include your name and university affiliation in your submission.

Visit us at: www.thesophophiliac.com for the complete guidelines.