
PSA Prize in Philosophy of Science & Race

Call for Submissions

The Philosophy of Science Association and UPSS Initiative are pleased to invite submissions for the new PSA Prize in Philosophy of Science & Race. This prize is awarded biennially by the Philosophy of Science Association for the best book, article, or chapter that integrates philosophy of science with discussions of race, ethnicity, and/or racism. Eligible publications must be published within the five years prior to the prize year/PSA meeting year. Author of the winning submission receives a $500 cash prize made possible through generous donations to the UPSS initiative. This competition is limited to members of the Philosophy of Science Association.

Eligibility

- Book, article, or chapter on any topic that integrates philosophy of science with discussions of race, ethnicity, and/or racism.
- Published within the five years prior to the prize year/PSA meeting year (2016-2020).
- Author must be a current PSA member. (If you are not a member, join the PSA.)
- Co-authored publications welcomed, but prize will only be awarded to authors who are current members of the PSA. For co-authored entries, submitting author(s) should include a brief statement of their role in, or contributions to, the publication.

Submission

Please upload a PDF of the published version of your submission, along with a short biosketch or abbreviated CV (no more than 1 page), via the online form:

<https://bit.ly/philsci-and-race>

Deadline

May 1, 2021 (23:59 EST)

The Philosophy of Science & Race Prize will be awarded in a ceremony at the PSA2020/21 Biennial Meeting November 11-14, 2021 in Baltimore, MD.

For questions, please contact the current chair of the UPSS Initiative: Alisa Bokulich, abokulich@bu.edu.