THREE PILLARS OF MORAL THEORY: METAETHICS, NORMATIVE ETHICS, AND APPLIED ETHICS

Questions of metaethics, applied ethics, and normative ethics are entangled, yet often sectioned off. This year's COVE Graduate Conference will focus on the ways in which these areas come together, and will highlight current debates in the broad sphere of moral theory. Together, we will explore these three pillars, as well as their interconnectivity.

Papers from all areas in ethics will be accepted from both graduate and undergraduate students. Slight preference will be given to papers that highlight the connections between these areas.
